MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. INTRODUCTION

For years, allegations and reports of mismanagement, shoddy reporting, and conflicts of interest have plagued the Los Angeles Homeless Services Authority (LAHSA). So much so, in fact, that Los Angeles County has recently withdrawn hundreds of millions of dollars in funding from the agency¹—a move that has been interpreted as “the biggest sign yet that local officials are fed up with LAHSA.”² Animated by similar concerns, reviews, and reports, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) found reason to believe that LAHSA is running afoul of its federal grant obligations, especially as to financial management, internal controls, and conflicts-of-interest safeguards. Accordingly, HUD decided to suspend LAHSA from participating in federal programs on a prospective basis, pending investigation.

HUD adopted that preliminary posture over a month ago. Rather than make its case to HUD directly (as HUD expressly invited it to do), LAHSA waited nearly three weeks before saddling this Court with a 50-page request for an ex parte emergency temporary restraining order. This Court rightly denied that request and converted LAHSA’s application into a motion for a preliminary injunction. Only then—days before the Government’s opposition brief was due—LAHSA did what it could have done the day it received notice of its suspension: it requested a hearing to contest the agency’s views of the facts in administrative proceedings. That proceeding is ongoing and now runs in parallel to this Court’s own consideration.

Nothing about this spectacle evinces respect for agency processes or judicial resources. Regardless, LAHSA’s application fails under the usual preliminary-

1 injunction factors. HUD has significant regulatory leeway in suspending organizations 2 from participation in federal programs—an agency action which is, definitionally, 3 temporary and preliminary. All HUD must produce is “adequate evidence” to “support 4 the reasonable belief” that LAHSA violated “the terms of a public agreement or 5 transaction” such that the integrity of a federal program is affected. 2 C.F.R. § 180.900;
6 see also id. §§180.700, 180.800. Years of public reporting—in and out of court—plainly 7 gives HUD reasonable grounds to suspect that LAHSA is not complying with federal 8 grant requirements for financial management, internal controls, and conflicts of interest.
9 To succeed under the substantial evidence standard, LAHSA must show not only that 10 these materials are not “adequate evidence,” but also that no reasonable person could 11 have reached HUD’s conclusion. Both standards give agencies like HUD significant 12 discretion, and together, they are two bridges too far for LAHSA.

13 Nor can LAHSA demonstrate that HUD’s exercise of its ordinary suspension 14 authority (an authority virtually every agency has) violates any statute. There is no 15 reason to suppose that Congress somehow intended to create a shield against any 16 scrutiny for homeless-assistance grants. And LAHSA cannot plausibly argue that 17 HUD’s remedial action is contrary to law when it tracks the exact words of the statute 18 Congress enacted.

19 Equitable factors also counsel against LAHSA’s requested relief. LAHSA 20 invokes speculative harm to third parties, but ultimately the only harm it alleges to itself 21 is a temporary suspension from future transactions with the government. And even 22 considering potential public consequences, they cannot outweigh the public interest in 23 HUD carrying out its mandate, or the “public interest in safeguarding the integrity of the 24 public contracting process.” Mainelli v. United States, 611 F. Supp. 606, 615 (D.R.I.
25 1985).

26 This Court should deny the application.

II. BACKGROUND

A. HUD's grantmaking authority.

Congress has long granted HUD the authority to administer homeless assistance grants. In 1987, Congress enacted the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act “to provide a broad range of services and assistance to homeless individuals and families.” Bullock v. Bd. of Educ., 210 F.R.D. 556, 556 (D. Md. 2002). That Act (and its various amendments) established a general framework for “provid[ing] funds for programs to assist the homeless.” 42 U.S.C. § 11301\(b\)\(3\).

In 2009, Congress passed the Homeless Emergency Assistance and Rapid Transition of Housing (HEARTH) Act, which reorganized HUD's funding activities into a “Continuum of Care” (CoC) program. Id. § 11382. Under that Act, HUD “award[s] grants to local coalitions ... to ‘carry out projects that serve homeless individuals or families.’” State of Washington v. U.S. HUD, 171 F.4th 473, 480 (1st Cir. 2026) (quoting 42 U.S.C. § 11383\(a\)). A CoC is made up of “[r]epresentatives from relevant organizations,” which include “nonprofit homeless assistance providers,” “social service providers,” “organizations that serve veterans and homeless and formerly homeless individuals,” and so forth. 24 C.F.R. § 578.5\(a\). A nonprofit organization must be designated by the local CoC to apply for HUD grants. Id. § 578.15(a), (b). A CoC can designate more than one applicant, id. § 578.15(b), and if more than one application will be submitted, a collaborative applicant . . . will collect and combine the required application information from all applicants and for all projects within the geographic area that the Continuum has selected funding,” § 578.9(a)(3)(i). HUD typically awards funds directly to the projects based on statutorily specified criteria, 42 U.S.C. § 11382\(a\).

Grants awarded under this program “shall be used to carry out projects that serve homeless individuals or families” via certain enumerated “eligible activities.” Id. § 11383(a). These grants are subject to strict conditions. HUD “may not provide assistance for a proposed project” unless “the collaborative applicant ... agrees” “to

1 comply” with “terms and conditions as the Secretary may establish to carry out this 2 [subtitle] in an effective and efficient manner.” Id. § 11386(b)(8); 2 C.F.R. § 578.3.

3 Congress has provided HUD with remedial authority when the CoC system fails.
4 When there is no suitable CoC in a geographic area, HUD “may take remedial action to 5 ensure fair distribution of grant amounts ... to eligible entities within that area.” 42 6 U.S.C. § 11360a(c).³ This remedial provision is flexible. It empowers HUD to take 7 “[s]uch measures” that “may include designating another body as a collaborative 8 applicant, or permitting other eligible entities to apply directly for grants.” Id.; see also 9 24 C.F.R. § 578.13(a).

10 B. HUD’s suspension authority.

11 HUD has the same tools as any agency when it comes to policing and taking 12 corrective action in response to suspected misconduct by federal partners. The agency 13 has adopted the government-wide suspension and debarment system from 2 C.F.R. part 14 180. See 24 C.F.R. part 2424. The purpose of that system is “[t]o protect the public 15 interest ... by conducting business only with responsible persons.” 2 C.F.R.
16 § 180.125(a). That purpose requires speed and significant leeway for the agency in 17 assessing conduct with its private counterparts. For that reason, federal agencies are 18 directed to “handle[]” suspension and debarment actions “as informally as practicable, 19 consistent with principles of fundamental fairness.” 2 C.F.R. § 180.610.

20 Suspension and debarment are very different actions. Debarment is the more 21 serious one. It operates as a “final determination that a person is not presently 22 responsible.” Id. § 180.605(a). Thus, in a debarment action, the agency bears the burden 23 of proof, and “must establish the cause for debarment by a preponderance of the 24

25 ³ Section 11360a(c) refers to a “collaborative applicant.” By statute, however, a 26 collaborative applicant is defined as “an entity that ... carries out the duties specified in 27 section 11360a of this title.” 42 U.S.C. § 11360(3)(A). Accordingly, as used in statute, 28 a “collaborative applicant” also includes CoCs themselves in addition to the entities they authorize to carry out programmatic duties. To avoid confusion, this brief tracks regulatory definitions of these terms.

evidence.” Id. § 180.850(a); accord id. § 180.855. A preponderance of the evidence is automatically met “[i]f the proposed debarment is based upon a conviction or civil judgment.” Id. § 180.850(b). And causes for debarment include a “[v]iolation of the terms of a public agreement or transaction so serious as to affect the integrity of a Federal agency program,” or “[a]ny ... cause that is so serious or compelling in nature that it affects [the person’s] present responsibility.” Id. § 180.800.

By contrast, a suspension is a purely preliminary tool: it “immediately prohibits a person from participating in covered transactions” with the federal government “for a temporary period, pending completion of a Federal agency investigation and any judicial or administrative proceedings that may ensue.” 2 C.F.R. § 180.1015. Suspension is a merely “temporary status of ineligibility for procurement and nonprocurement transactions, pending completion of an investigation or legal or debarment proceeding.” Id. § 180.605(a). Because it does not operate as a final determination of irresponsibility, the standard for justifying a suspension is much lower than the standard for debarment. Rather than prove a cause for debarment, a suspending official need only determine that there is “adequate evidence to suspect” a cause for debarment and that “[i]mmediate action is necessary to protect the public interest.” Id. § 180.700. “Adequate evidence” is not conclusive evidence; it is “information sufficient to support the reasonable belief that a particular act or omission has occurred.” Id. § 180.900.

Upon deciding to suspend an organization, the agency must “promptly” send a Notice of Suspension advising the organization that its suspension is based on one of several grounds, including “adequate evidence that [the organization] ha[s] committed irregularities that seriously reflect on the propriety of further Federal Government dealings with [it].” 2 C.F.R. § 180.715(b)(5). The notice must also inform the organization that its “suspension is for a temporary period pending the completion of an investigation or resulting legal or debarment proceedings.” Id. § 180.715(e). A suspension is strictly time-limited in the event such a proceeding is not initiated. Id. § 180.760. And regulations contemplate that suspended organizations may contest the

1 facts underlying their suspension before the agency within 30 days of receiving the 2 notice. Id. § 180.725.

3 C. Factual Background.

4 The eligible applicants in the geographic area of the Los Angeles (LA) CoC 5 consistently receive the largest amount of CoC funds of any similar group in the country.
6 Notice of Immediate Suspension Pending Investigation, ECF No. 24-24 (“June 11 7 Letter”) at 4 (PDF page numbers). LAHSA fills various roles for the LA CoC, including 8 functioning as its Collaborative Applicant. Compl. ¶ 47, ECF No. 1. As such, LAHSA 9 coordinates and submits a consolidated application for CoC funding on behalf of all 10 eligible applicants within the LA CoC. Id. And, of course, LAHSA itself is a grantee.
11 Id. ¶ 66. LAHSA receives CoC grants for administering the annual funding competition 12 as a collaborative applicant, receives additional CoC funds to manage the local Homeless 13 Management Information System (HMIS), and receives funds for homelessness projects 14 as well. See Exhibit 4 to June 11 Letter, ECF 15-27 at 3-8.

15 On June 11, 2026, HUD sent a Notice of Immediate Suspension Pending 16 Investigation to LAHSA. June 11 Letter at 2. The letter explained that “[i]nformation 17 has come to light demonstrating that LAHSA may have committed violations of federal 18 law in performing its obligations under HUD grant agreements,” and that HUD’s Office 19 of Inspector General “has initiated an investigation.” Id. HUD accordingly 20 “[s]uspend[ed] LAHSA’s participation in federal government programs,” because “HUD 21 has determined that continuing to provide additional federal funds to LAHSA is not in 22 the public interest.” Id.

23 HUD laid out its case for why it had “adequate evidence to suspect” that “LAHSA 24 has violated the terms of numerous public agreements or transactions, including those 25 with HUD,” that “these violations affect the integrity of multiple HUD funding 26 programs,” and that “LAHSA’s actions and inactions affect its present responsibility.” 27 Id. at 3. HUD explained that “those who receive and manage grant funds under HUD 28 programs” are required by regulations “to ensure the integrity of those programs by

1 using adequate financial management and internal controls, and by safeguarding against 2 possible conflicts of interest or improper personal gain.” Id. at 5 (citing 2 C.F.R.
3 §§ 200.302, 200.303, 200.112, 200.113). Furthermore, those requirements “are part of 4 LAHSA’s agreements with HUD, and LAHSA has repeatedly certified that it will follow 5 them.” Id.; see also id. at 5 n.6 (noting that “[t]hese requirements are incorporated into 6 the program-specific regulations governing HUD grant programs”).

7 The letter provided numerous grounds for HUD’s determination that there is 8 “adequate evidence” to suspect LAHSA did not live up to those guarantees. As to 9 financial management and internal controls, LAHSA has repeatedly found itself under 10 criticism from the LA City and County controllers. Id. This Court is already familiar 11 with many of the relevant details. LA All. for Human Rights v. City of L.A. (“LA Alliance 12 I”), 792 F. Supp. 3d 1049, 1060-68 (C.D. Cal. 2025).

13 For instance, in a 2023 City Council meeting, LAHSA was taken to task for 14 failing to monitor the use of funds under a City program for transitional motel housing.
15 June 11 Letter at 6. And in 2024, LA County’s Auditor-Controller found that LAHSA 16 was both chronically late in paying service providers, and “misused money from a 17 government funder by using it to pay for services provided under another government 18 funders’ contract/grant.” Id. (citation omitted); see also LA Alliance I, 792 F. Supp. 3d 19 at 1064-67 (describing 16 issues identified by the Auditor-Controller “demonstrat[ing] 20 significant deficiencies in LAHSA’s fiscal oversight and internal controls”). In litigation 21 and in ordinary administrative dealings, LAHSA has “struggled to provide requested 22 documentation,” culminating in LA County voting to withdraw funding from LAHSA in 23 April 2025. June 11 Letter at 8; see also LA Alliance I, 792 F. Supp. 3d at 1070 (noting 24 that the County Board of Supervisors “voted . . . to move more than $300 million . . . out 25 of LAHSA to a new county agency”). Although the findings HUD cited in the Notice of 26 Suspension do not all relate directly to LAHSA’s management of HUD grant funds, 27 when considered together, LAHSA’s documented failures provide adequate evidence to 28 suspect LAHSA’s financial management and internal control problems are systemic and 1 also affect its HUD-assisted activity.

2 The picture was no better as to HUD’s program regulations on conflicts of 3 interest. Although LAHSA “certifies to HUD dozens of times each year that it will 4 comply with these requirements and will ‘establish safeguards’” to prevent conflicts of 5 interest, it appears that, in October 2024, LAHSA “authorized its then-CEO to contract 6 with her husband’s employer to provide services for over $2 million,” id.—even though 7 HUD regulations state that officers who are “in a position to ... gain inside information” 8 may not “obtain a financial interest or benefit from an assisted activity ... either for him 9 or herself or for those with whom he or she has immediate family or business ties,” 24 10 C.F.R. § 578.95(d)(1). See also LA Alliance I, 792 F. Supp. 3d at 1071 (noting “recent 11 scandals involving the LAHSA CEO, her alleged favoritism in hiring, her relationship 12 with Mayor Bass, funds given to her husband’s non-profit, and her ultimate resignation 13 in April 2025”).

14 The letter made clear that it was not in any sense a final adjudication. June 11 15 Letter at 13. As the letter explained, LAHSA could contest it by requesting a hearing 16 under 2 C.F.R. § 180.730. In that request, LAHSA would provide “[s]pecific facts that 17 contradict the statements contained in the Notice of Suspension.” Id. § 180.730(a)(1).
18 And LAHSA had thirty days to submit such a request, which it ultimately did at the 19 eleventh hour on the evening of Friday, July 10, 2026. Id. § 180.725; Declaration of 20 Dane (Dana) M. Narode (“Narode Decl.”) ¶ 23.

21 A week later, HUD sent a Notice of Findings and Proposed Remedial Action to 22 the LA CoC and LAHSA. See Notice of Findings and Proposed Remedial Action, ECF 23 No. 24-23 (“June 18 Letter”). HUD explained that, because LAHSA is suspended and 24 no longer able to carry out its former functions on behalf of the LA CoC, the LA CoC “is 25 unable to execute its responsibilities” as a CoC. Id. at 2 (citing 24 C.F.R. §§ 578.7, 26 578.9). Accordingly, HUD notified the LA CoC and LAHSA that it intends to take 27 remedial action under 24 C.F.R. § 578.13 and 42 U.S.C. § 11360a(c) “to ensure fair 28 distribution of grant amounts ... to eligible entities within that area.” 42 U.S.C.

§ 11360a. And, just as those authorities contemplate and permit, HUD determined that “absent a contrary decision based on your response to this Notice, it would be in the public interest to allow eligible entities to submit their grant requests directly to HUD.” June 18 Letter at 2.

As with the June 11 Letter, HUD made clear that its proposed remedial action was not a final decision either. Id. at 3. It expressly provided the LA CoC and LAHSA with “an opportunity to respond, in writing, within 30 days from its receipt of this Notice.” Id. Only if the recipients “elect not to respond or if HUD finds the information submitted insufficient to invalidate HUD’s findings stated above” would HUD “proceed with the actions described herein.” Id.

D. Procedural History.

Instead of promptly seeking an administrative hearing, LAHSA waited nearly three weeks to file a complaint raising four claims against the June 11 and June 18 Letters. First, LAHSA claims that HUD violated the APA when it suspended LAHSA, because, in LAHSA’s telling, the only way to carry out Congress’s CoC program is to let LAHSA participate in federal government programs at any cost. Compl. ¶¶ 109-20. Second, LAHSA argues that the June 11 and June 18 Letters were arbitrary and capricious because it disagrees that HUD provided “adequate evidence” to support a suspension. Id. ¶¶ 121-35. Third, LAHSA claims that these letters violate the separation of powers and are ultra vires. Id. ¶¶ 136-46. Finally, LAHSA argues that HUD has somehow usurped state power by not allowing it to participate in federal programs. Id. ¶¶ 147-52.

LAHSA also filed a 50-page ex parte application for preliminary relief, a TRO, and a preliminary injunction. ECF. No. 15 (“PI Motion”). The Court declined to grant ex parte relief and instead converted LAHSA’s application into a motion for preliminary injunction.

Finally, at the edge of the thirty-day window to contest the June 11 Letter before the agency—and mere days before the Government’s opposition brief was due—

1 LAHSA administratively responded to HUD. Narode Decl. at ¶ 23.

2 III. STANDARD OF REVIEW

3 “[A] preliminary injunction is an extraordinary remedy never awarded as of right.”
4 Benisek v. Lamone, 585 U.S. 155, 158 (2018) (citation omitted). “To obtain a 5 preliminary injunction, a plaintiff must make a clear showing that he is likely to succeed 6 on the merits, that he is likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of preliminary 7 relief, that the balance of equities tips in his favor, and that an injunction is in the public
8 interest.” Garcia v. County of Alameda, 150 F.4th 1224, 1229-30 (9th Cir. 2025) 9 (citation omitted).

10 IV. ARGUMENT

11 Little about how LAHSA conducted this case makes sense. It began by declining 12 the agency’s invitation to contest its findings in favor of waiting three weeks to file an 13 emergency application. That emergency-now-preliminary-injunction application largely 14 concerned itself with attacking the agency’s view of the materials before it and whether 15 the agency had “adequate evidence” to suspend LAHSA—the exact sort of matters that 16 should be raised to the agency in the first instance. When the Court rejected LAHSA’s 17 ex parte gambit, LAHSA waited a week to go back to the agency and request an 18 administrative hearing.

19 LAHSA’s suit is both premature and unnecessary. “Courts are generally 20 precluded, under the ripeness doctrine, from prematurely adjudicating administrative 21 matters until the proper agency has formalized its decision.” Neighbors of Cuddy 22 Mountain v. Alexander, 303 F.3d 1059, 1067 (9th Cir. 2002) (citation omitted). An 23 agency action must be considered “non-final” if it is the subject of a pending
24 administrative appeal. Church v. United States, Case No. CV 12-3990 GAF (SSx), 2013
25 WL 12064271, at *6 (C.D. Cal. May 15, 2013) (quoting Bangura v. Hansen, 434 F.3d 26 487, 500 (6th Cir. 2006)). Thus, while LAHSA challenges its suspension through an 27 administrative appeal, any judicial challenge to that suspension is incurably premature.
28 Crawford-Hall v. United States, 394 F. Supp. 3d 1122, 1154 (C.D. Ca. 2019); Church,

1 2013 WL 12064271, at *6.

2 In any event, LAHSA cannot show entitlement to a preliminary injunction under 3 these circumstances. Every factor of the analysis weighs against granting LAHSA's 4 request. LAHSA is unlikely to succeed on the merits. Suspension places a temporary 5 pause on federal program participation and is an inherently preliminary measure that aids 6 assessment of an organization's stewardship of federal resources. There was more than 7 enough information in the record for HUD to conclude that the low bar of "adequate 8 evidence" was met to justify that limited action and further investigation into LAHSA, 9 and HUD's June 11 and June 18 Letters were reasonable and reasonably explained.

10 A. Plaintiffs Have Not Demonstrated Likelihood of Success on the Merits.

11 LAHSA has not shown the requisite likelihood of success that could justify any 12 sort of injunction. HUD was on firm ground when it found that there is "adequate" 13 evidence to justify suspending LAHSA pending investigation. The HEARTH Act does 14 not immunize LAHSA from the ordinary requirements every government grantee is 15 subjected to. Rather, it anticipates the possibility of grantee failure and gives HUD 16 express authority to address it. And there is no plausible argument that HUD simply 17 declining to deal with LAHSA somehow violates the Tenth Amendment or the 18 separation of powers.

19 1. HUD's Actions are Neither Arbitrary Nor Capricious.

20 At bottom, LAHSA disagrees with HUD's determination that "adequate evidence" 21 exists of a "[v]iolation of the terms of a public agreement or transaction so serious as to 22 affect the integrity of a Federal agency program," 2 C.F.R. § 180.800\(b\), or other "cause 23 that is so serious or compelling in nature that it affects [the person's] present 24 responsibility," id. § 180.800(d). Agency decisions to issue suspensions always involve 25 "question[s] of judgment." Horne Bros., Inc. v. Laird, 463 F.2d 1268, 1272 (D.C. Cir.
26 1972). As such, this Court's "role in reviewing agency contract decisions is limited to 27 determining whether the agency acted in accord with applicable statutes and regulations 28

1 and had a rational basis for its decisions.” Delta Data Systems Corp. v. Webster, 744 2 F.2d 197, 204 (D.C. Cir. 1984).

3 a. HUD’s Actions are Supported by Adequate Evidence.

4 HUD reasonably found that there is “adequate evidence” that LAHSA violated the 5 terms of its “public agreement[s] or transaction[s]” and that such violations were “so 6 serious as to affect the integrity” of HUD’s programs. Adequate evidence means only 7 “information sufficient to support the reasonable belief that a particular act or omission 8 has occurred.” 2 C.F.R. § 180.900. As LAHSA admits, PI Motion 34, that standard is 9 “less than what must be shown at [a] trial, but it must be more than uncorroborated 10 suspicion or accusation.” Horne Bros., 463 F.2d at 1272.

11 What is more, in challenging the factual findings made in the June 11 Letter, 12 LAHSA’s task before this Court is a steep uphill climb. HUD’s factual findings are 13 reviewed under the substantial evidence standard, Ursack, Inc. v. Sierra Interagency 14 Black Bear Group, 639 F.3d 949, 958 n.4 (9th Cir. 2011), an “extremely lenient 15 standard” which requires only “such relevant evidence as a reasonable mind might 16 accept as adequate to support a conclusion,” Zerezghi v. U.S. Citizenship & Immigration 17 Servs., 955 F.3d 802, 814 (9th Cir. 2020) (citation omitted). So as long as any 18 reasonable mind could agree with HUD that there is adequate evidence to support a 19 suspension, this Court must deny the preliminary injunction.

20 The June 11 Letter easily clears that bar. The letter identifies the violations it 21 suspects—namely, the litany problems with “financial management,” “internal 22 control[,]” and “conflicts of interest” safeguard requirements that are “part of LAHSA’s 23 agreements with HUD.” June 11 Letter at 5. In particular, federal regulations require 24 grant recipients’ financial management systems to provide for “[e]ffective control over 25 and accountability for all funds, property, and assets.” 2 C.F.R. § 200.302(b)(4). Grant 26 recipients “must safeguard all assets and ensure they are used solely for authorized 27 purposes.” Id. Recipients must also “[e]stablish, document, and maintain effective 28 internal control over the Federal award that provides reasonable assurance that the

1 recipient or subrecipient is managing the Federal award in compliance with Federal 2 statutes, regulations, and the terms and conditions of the Federal award.” Id.
3 § 200.303(a). They must “[e]valuate and monitor ... compliance with statutes, 4 regulations, and the terms and conditions of Federal awards,” and “[t]ake prompt action
5 when instances of noncompliance are identified.” Id. § 200.303(c), (d). And, in the CoC 6 program specifically, HUD requires grant recipients to comply with various conflict-of-7 interest guidelines and will only provide an exception when the recipient provides proper 8 documentation. 24 C.F.R. § 578.95.

9 HUD exhaustively catalogued the “information sufficient to support the 10 reasonable belief” that those requirements were violated. 2 C.F.R. § 180.900. The June 11 11 Letter cited years of reports—many already documented by this Court—indicating 12 that LAHSA lacks adequate financial management and internal controls. June 11 Letter 13 at 5-9; see also LA Alliance I, 792 F. Supp. 3d at 1060-71. In 2019, the LA City 14 Controller Report “faulted LAHSA for having ill-defined goals, uncoordinated data 15 collection, and performance metrics that were unclear and not specific.” June 11 Letter 16 at 6. In 2022, HUD’s OIG “found that LAHSA failed to use $3.5 million in CoC grant 17 awards, letting the funds expire, did not support the CoC’s Homeless Management 18 Information System (HMIS), did not submit timely annual performance reports, and did 19 not provide supporting documentation for over $870,000 in payroll and rent costs 20 LAHSA charged to its CoC grants.” Id. These lax practices did not abate in the 21 following years. In 2024 “a review by LA County’s Auditor-Controller found, among 22 other things, that LAHSA misused money from a government funder by using it to pay 23 for services provided under another government funders’ contract/grant.” Id. And in 24 2025, this Court ordered a review of services provided by LAHSA, culminating in an 25 assessment that “faulted LAHSA’s limited financial oversight and performance 26 monitoring.” Id. at 7.

27 Even this year, “LAHSA and City staff have reported that LAHSA owed roughly 28 $69 million in payments to shelter, housing, and other service providers, many of which

1 are more than 90 days due.” Id. at 8. In March, LAHSA “missed the deadline for filing
2 its federally mandated Single Audit.” Id. at 9. And in May, the LA County Auditor-3 Controller’s review “faulted LAHSA for its limited financial transparency, for having 4 incomplete and inaccurate financial records, for deficiencies in cash management, for its 5 volume of overdue payments to services providers, for failing to submit timely requests 6 to LA County for advance funding to pay providers, for accepting late invoices from 7 providers[,] and for failing to identify overpayments and underpayments and recoup 8 excess advances at the end of each fiscal quarter.” Id.

9 As to conflicts of interest, despite LAHSA certifying that it would “establish 10 safeguards to prohibit employees from using their positions for a purpose that constitutes 11 or presents the appearance of personal or organizational conflict of interest, or personal 12 gain,” that did not stop the situation involving LAHSA’s former CEO. Id. at 10.
13 Furthermore, public reporting suggests that, until recently, only one individual (the 14 CEO) before then was required to file interest disclosure forms, making it “much more 15 difficult for LAHSA to learn of any potential conflicts of interest.” Id. The Single Audit 16 in May 2026 noted “that LAHSA had engaged in undisclosed ‘Related Party 17 Transactions’ with a subrecipient that had employed the husband of LAHSA’s former 18 CEO as one of its senior staff.” Id. And in 2024, “LAHSA’s Commissioners ...
19 authorized its then-CEO to contract with her husband’s employer to provide services for 20 over $2 million.” Id.

21 HUD also explained why “[i]mmediate action is needed to protect the public 22 interest.” Id. at 12. The agency “has wide discretion” in making that determination, and 23 “may infer the necessity for immediate action” either “from the nature of the 24 circumstances giving rise to a cause for suspension” or “from potential business 25 relationships or involvement with a program of the Federal Government.” 2 C.F.R.
26 § 180.705(c). Here, the circumstances indicated that LAHSA’s compliance troubles 27 have persisted for years and could even become worse as the County “transfer[s] ...
28 funds away from LAHSA effective July 1, 2026.” June 11 Letter at 12-13. Furthermore,

1 LAHSA’s status as “the lead agency in the largest HUD-funded CoC in the nation” made 2 perpetuating the status quo any longer untenable. Id. And, if more were needed, 3 suspending LAHSA at this time was especially appropriate while there was still time to 4 ensure that LA service providers could participate in the FY2026 competition without 5 disruption.

6 The June 18 Letter—which, contrary to LAHSA’s misconceptions, is not a 7 suspension notice but rather a remedial action letter—is equally well-founded. HUD 8 may take remedial action if it “finds that the Continuum of Care for a geographic area 9 does not meet the requirements of the Act or its implementing regulations.” 24 C.F.R.
10 § 578.13(a); 42 U.S.C. § 11360a(c). As the June 18 Letter explains, because LAHSA 11 was suspended seven days earlier, it was “unable to act as [the LA CoC’s] collaborative 12 applicant or carry out other delegated responsibilities.” June 18 Letter at 2. It followed 13 that the LA CoC is “unable to execute its responsibilities.” Id. That should have come 14 as no surprise to LAHSA. Suspending an organization who performs “four key roles” 15 for a CoC required “[b]y Congressional design and HUD regulation,” Compl. ¶ 45—as 16 LAHSA says it does in its complaint—should naturally mean that the CoC can no longer 17 fulfill its responsibilities. And based on that finding, HUD is authorized to take the 18 remedial action that it did: “permitting other eligible entities to apply directly [to HUD] 19 for grants.” 42 U.S.C. § 11360a.

20 LAHSA’s quibbles with the above can only be explained by a generalized 21 disagreement with the adequate-evidence standard. First, LAHSA suggests that articles, 22 reports, and reviews can never constitute “adequate evidence,” as if only “criminal or 23 civil judgment[s],” HUD-OIG and federal Single Audits can ever support suspension. PI 24 Motion 33-34, 44. LAHSA severely underrates the evidence HUD brought to bear in the 25 June 11 Letter—evidence that includes audits, lawsuits, meeting transcripts, and other 26 materials that easily support opening an investigation. Nor is LAHSA’s dismissal of 27 news articles a sensible line to draw. Matters significant enough to find their way into 28

1 public reporting obviously can give HUD—and members of the public, for that matter—2 notice of potential wrongdoing.

3 LAHSA’s imagined hurdles before HUD can take even a preliminary and 4 temporary action misconceives the endeavor. The adequate evidence standard requires 5 “less than what must be shown at [a] trial,” Horne Bros., 463 F.2d at 1272 (emphasis 6 added)—in other words, no conviction, judgment, or formal final finding is necessary.
7 See RSI, Inc. v. United States, 772 F. Supp. 956, 958 (W.D. Tex. 1991). And LAHSA’s 8 selective quoting of the regulations undersells the expansiveness of what counts as 9 adequate evidence: “indicators of adequate evidence” “may include, but are not limited 10 to, warrants and their accompanying affidavits.” 2 C.F.R. § 180.705(b)(3) (emphasis 11 added). Persistent reports and allegations of negligence or malfeasance can easily 12 support a reasonable suspicion that public agreements are being shirked. See RSI, Inc., 13 772 F. Supp. at 958 (even an “unverified civil complaint” can support adequate 14 evidence). And LAHSA’s dismissal of HUD’s evidence as “hearsay information” (PI 15 Motion at 34) is a non-sequitur; a suspension proceeding is not a federal court 16 proceeding, and “the suspending official is not required to follow formal rules of 17 evidence,” 2 C.F.R. § 180.740(b).

18 LAHSA’s criticism that HUD has not produced a “criminal or civil judgment” (PI 19 Motion at 33) is especially misguided given the nature of a suspension. A suspension—20 to repeat ad nauseum—is temporary, “pending the completion of an investigation or 21 resulting legal or debarment proceedings.” 2 C.F.R. § 180.715(e); see also id.
22 §§ 180.605, 180.1015. A suspension can last no longer than the “debarment 23 proceeding[] ... initiated at the time of or during [the] suspension.” Id. § 180.760(a).
24 But a “conviction or civil judgment” would mean that “the standard of proof” is already 25 met for a debarment action, id. § 180.850(b), which operates as a “final determination,” 26 id. § 180.605. It thus makes no sense to require a conviction or civil judgment—or a 27 similar level of evidence—to institute a suspension because there would be nothing left 28 to investigate.

1 LAHSA is thus wrong to require a “finding[] of noncompliance with federal 2 program requirements” before imposing suspension. PI Motion at 36 n.8. The point of 3 the suspension action is to provide a limited remedy pending investigation for final 4 proof. Here, the evidence HUD has provided justifies that action and then some.
5 Although HUD was not required to do so in a notice of suspension, the agency cited and 6 incorporated exhibits as evidence that very well may prove some violations of HUD 7 requirements. Even if it does not, it more than supports further investigation, and a 8 temporary pause in LAHSA’s participation in federal programs until that investigation 9 concludes.

10 Second, LAHSA curiously castigates HUD for “not identify[ing] any particular 11 agreement, transaction or contract term that LAHSA violated for any specific time 12 period.” Id. at 33. But the letter’s reference to the regulations governing government 13 contracting is anything but “vague[.]” Id. The requirements in those regulations “are 14 part of LAHSA’s agreements with HUD.” June 11 Letter at 5. Moreover, the letter lists 15 out the certifications and statements with which HUD had “adequate evidence to 16 suspect” noncompliance, and which are “expressly incorporated into each of HUD’s 17 grant agreements with LAHSA along with the further agreement that the award will be 18 governed by HUD’s program regulations.” Id. at 11-12. LAHSA is, or ought to be, in 19 possession of all those agreements, and many are individually referenced in an exhibit 20 attached to the June 11 Letter. HUD’s 2024 CoC Program Funding Awards, ECF No.
21 15-27 at 3-9. LAHSA’s confusion on this point cannot be serious.

22 Third, LAHSA would have this Court close its eyes to reality and assume that 23 failure to properly manage state and local funds has nothing to do with LAHSA’s ability 24 to properly manage federal funds. See PI Motion 36. But “[j]udges are not required to 25 exhibit a naiveté from which ordinary citizens are free.” Diamond Alt. Energy, LLC v.
26 EPA, 606 U.S. 100, 122 (2025). And neither is HUD. Reports that LAHSA’s 27 management of state and local funds has been persistently sub-par obviously bears on 28 whether HUD can expect LAHSA to comply with federal program requirements. The adequate evidence standard does not require HUD to turn a blind eye to public reports of LAHSA's mismanagement of state and local grant programs.

Fourth, LAHSA accuses HUD of "mischaracteriz[ing] facts" and of "cherry-picking" audits and reviews. PI Motion at 35-36. As an initial matter, this is the exact sort of argument that LAHSA could raise before the agency. See 2 C.F.R. § 180.730(a)(1) (respondent should submit "[s]pecific facts that contradict the statements contained in the Notice of Suspension" to contest the agency's findings). In any event, LAHSA's spin on the facts takes turns between omitting key details, attempting to disclaim responsibility, and pushing a rosy view of its actions that HUD is not required to adopt.

Start with LAHSA's stab at excusing its former CEO's conflict of interest. LAHSA claims that HUD did an "about-face" in taking action because it "closed out" its compliance inquiry with LAHSA in a letter dated April 2, 2026. PI Motion at 34-35. But LAHSA ignores the letter's explicit, narrow scope. Its close-out was "limited to the specific issues raised," "d[id] not represent a conclusive determination regarding fraud, waste, or abuse," and "d[id] not affect the authority of HUD or any action now or in the future." ECF No. 24-58 at 2. In other words, HUD reserved the right to, among other things, refer the matter to the appropriate agency office for consideration of potential fraud, waste, and abuse associated with the specific conflict of interest at issue in the finding. There is thus nothing inconsistent about HUD suspending and proposing the debarment of Dr. Adams Kellum and of her husband. ECF No. 24-35. Nor did it preclude HUD from further investigating LAHSA's conduct with respect to that conflict.

And obviously, HUD's April 2, 2026, letter did not preclude HUD from investigating other potential conflicts of interest at LAHSA. HUD put LAHSA on notice that what HUD ultimately required as a corrective action was not merely a new policy, but a new policy "effectively implemented to prevent potential conflicts of interest that may arise with CoC grant funds in the future." ECF 24-58 at 4. The letter was not HUD's final word on LAHSA's compliance with HUD's conflict-of-interest prohibitions

1 and obviously did not immunize LAHSA from further agency action—especially where, 2 as here, HUD’s on-going investigation has revealed additional potential conflicts of 3 interest that LAHSA had not disclosed to HUD at the time HUD issued the referenced 4 close-out letter.

5 Moreover, as HUD has explained, it now has “reason to suspect LAHSA’s conflict 6 of interest violations are not limited to” Dr. Adams Kellum’s conflict. June 11 Letter at 7 10. In particular, HUD “is currently reviewing what appears to be a practice of 8 LAHSA’s Commission to allow individuals with potential conflicts of interest to recuse 9 from specific decisions without disclosing relevant interests to HUD or seeking a 10 required exception under HUD’s regulations.” Id. Even though HUD’s Field Office 11 closed out its finding of non-compliance after Dr. Adams Kellum’s departure from 12 LAHSA, nothing in the suspension authorities or in the referenced close-out letter 13 precludes HUD from considering that egregious conflict of interest along with others in 14 what appears to be LAHSA’s pattern of similar violations.

15 Next, consider LAHSA’s attempt to wash its hands of the City Controller’s 16 findings about City homelessness funds. PI Motion at 35. According to LAHSA, the 17 City Controller’s announcement that it failed to spend $513 million in public funds 18 “concern the City, not LAHSA.” Id. It is hard to see how that can be. The referenced 19 notice indeed discusses programs funded by the City, e.g., the Inside Safe program. See 20 ECF No. 24-30 at 3-4. But, as this Court well knows, LAHSA manages City 21 homelessness programs, including Inside Safe. See ECF No. 24-30 at 75 (“Similar to the 22 other City Programs, services for Inside Safe participants were managed through 23 LAHSA.”). If nothing else, the City appears to question LAHSA’s stewardship of its 24 funds, as it recently contemplated issuing “a mandate that LAHSA contract with a 25 qualified, independent accounting firm to manage the distribution, reconciliation, and 26 tracking of City funds[.]” ECF No. 24-33 at 15.

27 LAHSA attempts to distinguish its payment processes for state and locally funded 28 services—where it acknowledges documented failings—from the processes it uses for

1 HUD-assisted servicers. PI Motion at 35-36. As an initial matter, LAHSA's problems 2 go well beyond the timeliness of provider payments. See generally June 11 Letter. But 3 in any event, HUD is not required to be oblivious to LAHSA's failures with regard to 4 other public funding programs when assessing risk to its own programs. Whether there 5 are meaningful differences between LAHSA's HUD-assisted payment processes and its 6 other payment processes, and whether any such differences should put HUD at ease 7 about LAHSA's financial management and internal controls, are exactly the kinds of 8 issues HUD needs to investigate and weigh. To halt its investigation or lift its 9 suspension in the face of LAHSA's failure to comply with other public funding 10 programs would fall short of HUD's mandate—and the purpose of the suspension 11 authority—to “conduct[] business only with responsible persons,” 2 C.F.R. § 180.125(a).

12 In any event, LAHSA mixes apples and oranges by conflating and 13 misunderstanding two financial processes—the process by which LAHSA pays service 14 providers, and the process by which LAHSA's funders (i.e., the City, County, State, and 15 HUD) give LAHSA the funds it uses to make those payments. As to the former, 16 LAHSA says that “state and local funders impose a cost-reimbursable payment model” 17 on LAHSA's payments to service providers. PI Motion 35. Maybe so, but that is no 18 way to distinguish state and federal funding. As LAHSA's interim CFO acknowledged, 19 “[t]he contracts that LAHSA currently holds with HUD ... require [LAHSA to use] the 20 same ... cost reimbursement model.” ECF No. 24-32 at 53; see also id. (“[T]he current 21 model that we hold with HUD is the cost reimbursement model.”).

22 The second process—how LAHSA's funders give LAHSA the money it uses to 23 pay providers—provides no real basis for a meaningful distinction either. LAHSA says 24 that “the federal drawdown process makes funds available within about three business 25 days,” the implication being that HUD makes funds available to LAHSA on a more 26 timely basis than state and local funders. PI Motion at 36. But that argument is 27 undermined by the evidence cited in the June 11 Letter. As LAHSA's interim CFO 28 recently acknowledged, the State of California provides LAHSA with “cash on hand”

1 with which to reimburse providers, giving LAHSA access to funds even sooner than 2 three business days. ECF No. 24-32 at 53.

3 LAHSA also insists that the Court require HUD to ignore any review or 4 assessment other than HUD OIG audits and federal Single Audits. As convenient as that 5 would be for LAHSA, the substantial evidence standard does not force HUD to indulge 6 such willful blindness or naiveté. Regardless, LAHSA's attempts to minimize those 7 audits and HUD's interpretations of them founder. LAHSA appears to admit that, even 8 after more than three years, complete resolution of the HUD-OIG audit's findings is still 9 "in progress." See PI Motion 36-37. LAHSA further claims the 2022 HUD-OIG 10 findings are irrelevant to the integrity of LAHSA's internal controls over federal funds.
11 Id. That takes too stingy a view of LAHSA's federal internal control obligations.
12 LAHSA is required to "[e]stablish, document, and maintain effective internal control 13 over the Federal award that provides reasonable assurance that the recipient or 14 subrecipient is managing the Federal award in compliance with statutes, regulations, and 15 the terms and conditions of the Federal award." 2 C.F.R. § 200.303(a). HUD-OIG's 16 findings that LAHSA failed to spend $3.5 million in CoC funds and let them expire, that 17 LAHSA failed to support the statutorily required HMIS system under a grant provided 18 specifically for that purpose, that LAHSA failed to submit timely performance reports, 19 and that LAHSA failed to provide supporting documentation for over $870,000 in 20 payroll and rent costs—see June 11 Letter at 5 and Exhibit 13 thereto—are obviously 21 relevant to the integrity of LAHSA's internal controls over federal funds.

22 As to the Single Audit, LAHSA would have this Court view it as a "fully-clean" 23 bill of health. PI Motion at 37. But it declares a much less favorable prognosis. The 24 Single Audit explained that LAHSA "does not have effective controls in place to provide 25 reasonable assurance that financial statements were prepared [properly]" and that 26 LAHSA's "internal controls over financial reporting were not adequately designed or 27 implemented." June 11 Letter at 8. Rather than address those statements head-on (or 28 even quote them), LAHSA attempts to brush them under the rug in a footnote as just an

1 “observation.” PI Motion at 36 n.8. Whatever LAHSA wants to call those concerning 2 statements, they contribute to HUD’s adequate evidence to suspect LAHSA is deficient 3 in its financial management and internal controls.

4 Finally, LAHSA points to its claimed improvements over the years, in a bid for 5 this Court to rule that its troubles are fully in the past. PI Motion at 37. That the County 6 pulled its funding only a few days after LAHSA began this litigation suggests otherwise.
7 Regardless, as noted in the June 11 Letter, and in the Single Audit quoted therein and 8 above, there is adequate evidence to suspect LAHSA’s financial management and 9 internal controls remain deficient. Whether LAHSA is a “responsible person[]” for 10 HUD to do business with is a matter for the ongoing investigation to determine. 2 11 C.F.R. § 180.125(a). And the point of the suspension authority is to give HUD “the right 12 to refuse temporarily to deal with a contractor about whom there is suspicion, based on 13 ‘adequate evidence,’ of serious misconduct.” Mainelli, 611 F. Supp. at 614 (emphasis 14 added). Any suspended contractor can argue that its troubled days are behind it. That is 15 reason for a rigorous and prompt investigation, not an excuse to halt it.

16 In the end, LAHSA’s main objection is that, in its view, the misconduct suspected 17 in the June 11 Letter is not “so serious as to affect the integrity of a Federal agency 18 program.” PI Motion at 37 (citation omitted). But that is a quintessential “question of 19 judgment” reserved for the agency. Horne Bros., 463 F.2d at 1272. HUD could 20 reasonably determine that LAHSA’s failure to abide by its financial management, 21 internal controls, and conflicts-of-interest safeguards is “serious” enough to affect 22 program integrity. Indeed, a recipient’s apparent inability to track and control the use of 23 program funds, or learn of their misuse, and its apparent unwillingness to protect those 24 funds from the control of officials with their own interests arguably go to the core of 25 what the suspension authority is designed to address. The record does not compel 26 rejecting HUD’s reasonable conclusions on this score.

b. HUD's Actions Were Reasonable and Reasonably Explained.

LAHSA next insists that HUD's actions should be overturned because of a smorgasbord of policy disputes dressed up as an APA challenge. According to LAHSA, HUD failed "to consider how its suspension of LAHSA will affect the problem of homelessness in Los Angeles," "failed to consider alternative courses of action that would inflict less irreparable harm," and "fail[ed] to account for the substantial reliance interests of sub-grantee service providers, the local government, and the unhoused." PI Motion 38-41. But arbitrary-and-capricious review is not supposed to be a straightjacket. That "deferential" standard of review requires only that an agency action "be reasonable and reasonably explained." FCC v. Prometheus Radio Project, 592 U.S. 414, 422-23 (2021). A court "may not substitute its own policy judgment for that of the agency"; rather, its role is limited to ensuring that the agency "has reasonably considered the relevant issues and reasonably explained the decision." Id. (emphasis added).

HUD has met that standard here. Contra LAHSA's representations, HUD did consider the public interest: "It is not in the public interest to perpetuate the status quo, i.e., to permit LAHSA to continue to receive additional millions of dollars of federal funds, as the lead agency in the largest HUD-funded CoC in the nation, when there is adequate evidence that it is not in compliance with HUD requirements and not presently responsible to participate in government programs." June 11 Letter at 12-13. That assessment is reasonable. See Mainelli, 611 F. Supp. at 615 (noting "the public interest in safeguarding the integrity of the public contracting process"). It is peculiar that LAHSA thinks HUD has somehow failed to consider that its suspension could have some effect on homelessness in Los Angeles when HUD's letter noted (1) that "[h]omelessness is a crisis plaguing Americans, (2) that "Los Angeles is, and for years has been, the epicenter of the homelessness crisis," and (3) that, "[i]n 2024, LAHSA was the second largest direct recipient of HUD CoC funds in the nation. June 11 Letter at 4. Indeed, HUD expressly took its action in part because of its fear that "diverting dollars from worthy programs to LAHSA merely makes the homeless crisis worse." Id. at 3.

1 And that is not even to get into HUD’s accompanying “remedial action to ensure the fair
2 distribution of grant amounts to eligible projects within the Los Angeles CoC’s 3 geographic area.” June 18 Letter at 2. LAHSA’s brief argument that HUD failed to 4 show “good reasons” (PI Motion at 28) for its new policy similarly falls flat. HUD fully 5 explained why it decided now was the time to suspend LAHSA, and that LAHSA 6 dislikes the given reasons is no license to second-guess the agency’s determinations.

7 LAHSA also strangely claims that HUD failed to adequately explain that LAHSA 8 lacks “present responsibility” because “[t]he references in the June 11 Letter date back as 9 far as 2007.” PI Motion at 39. But—as HUD made clear—part of the reason HUD 10 suspended LAHSA is that it views LAHSA’s conduct as “establish[ing] a clear pattern” 11 rather than a series of “isolated incidents.” June 11 Letter at 3; see also id. at 3-4 (noting 12 that LAHSA’s “track record demonstrates systemic and repeated failures to comply and 13 jeopardizes the operations of LAHSA and all parties it does business with”). It is 14 perfectly reasonable to cite old conduct when it is part of a pattern, and when HUD’s 15 point is that “LAHSA’s publicly documented difficulties” are “chronic and systemic.”
16 Id. at 5. Regardless, HUD also included numerous recent examples of suspected 17 misconduct. And, unlike in LAHSA’s inaptly cited case of Sloan v. HUD, here HUD 18 does not “acknowledge that [LAHSA’s] alleged improper activity ... had ceased before 19 the issuance of the suspension[.]” 231 F.3d 10, 17 (D.C. Cir. 2000). Far from it—HUD 20 issued this suspension in part because “LAHSA’s recent Single Audit and LA County’s 21 recent review ... both reveal that the issues previously identified persist.” June 11 Letter 22 at 12.

23 LAHSA is also incorrect that the June 11 Suspension was arbitrary and capricious 24 purely because it did not go through an itemized list of possible alternatives. “Agencies 25 are not compelled to explore every alternative device and thought conceivable by the 26 mind of man.” Dep’t of Homeland Sec. v. Regents of the Univ. of Cal., 591 U.S. 1, 33 27 (2020) (citation omitted); see also Motor Vehicle Mfrs. Ass’n v. State Farm Mut. Auto.
28 Ins. Co., 463 U.S. 29, 51 (1983) (declining to “broadly require an agency to consider all

1 policy alternatives in reaching decision”). For that matter, LAHSA hardly bothers with 2 any specifics, taking issue with its “blanket suspension” (PI Motion at 40) but never 3 suggesting anything other than not imposing the suspension at all—an alternative that 4 HUD obviously considered. And LAHSA ignores that HUD did try numerous other 5 methods of addressing and detecting potential fraud—for instance, the HUD-OIG audit
6 and the findings process as to LAHSA’s former CEO. ECF 24-58 It is neither arbitrary
7 nor capricious for HUD to conclude that, at this point, a temporary suspension in support 8 of an investigation was a well-tailored measure to ensure its funds are being 9 appropriately utilized.

10 In any event, HUD “did not err in declining to consider alternative solutions that 11 did not address the problem it had identified.” League of Cal. Cities v. FCC, 118 F.4th
12 995, 1018 (9th Cir. 2024). HUD explained that the evidence before it suggested LAHSA 13 “undermined the integrity of—and the public’s trust in—the CoC and other HUD 14 programs” and “put millions of dollars of HUD funds at increased risk of fraud and 15 abuse.” June 11 Letter at 11; see also id. at 9. HUD further expressed its concerns that 16 LAHSA’s “failures put at risk hundreds of millions of dollars from HUD[and] taxpayers 17 ... every year,” and that “diverting dollars from worthy programs to LAHSA merely 18 makes the homeless crisis worse.” Id. at 3-4. Thus, HUD necessarily considered and 19 rejected the alternatives of turning a blind eye or taking half-measures.

20 Finally, HUD did not ignore the Los Angeles homeless population’s reliance 21 interests in procuring HUD funds. The June 11 Letter expressly noted that Los Angeles 22 “is, and for years has been, the epicenter of the homelessness crisis in America.” Id. at 23 4. It acknowledged that “LAHSA was the second largest direct recipient of HUD CoC 24 funds in the nation” in 2024, and that LAHSA “receives and manages significant HUD 25 funding and has since 1993.” Id. at 4-5. But HUD also noted that it “and the public 26 have lost confidence in LAHSA and its ability to tackle the homelessness crisis,” and 27 that, despite “receiving significant funding from the federal government, as well as state, 28 city, and county funding, Los Angeles’ homelessness crisis remains the largest in the country.” Id. HUD was well within its rights to determine that any reliance on the currently faulty operation of the homeless support system in Los Angeles did not outweigh the need to better manage HUD’s programs.

A “reviewing court must uphold even a decision of less than ideal clarity if the agency’s path may reasonably be discerned.” Garland v. Ming Dai, 593 U.S. 357, 369 (2021) (citation omitted). And agencies are permitted to make policy calls within a zone of discretion, which courts and litigants are not permitted to supplant. See State Farm, 463 U.S. at 59 (Rehnquist, J., concurring). Here, HUD’s decision is pellucid, reasonable, and amply explained. LAHSA’s arbitrary-and-capricious claims fail.

2. HUD’s Actions Are Not Inconsistent With Law or Ultra Vires.

LAHSA’s statutory arguments—that HUD cannot suspend LAHSA consistent with the HEARTH Act—similarly falter. In LAHSA’s telling, because Congress created a statutory CoC program and LAHSA has been an important part of the LA CoC, HUD cannot suspend LAHSA without contravening the statute. That is, LAHSA invites the Court to construe the HEARTH Act to give LAHSA immunity from the suspension process applicable to every other government grantee.

That cannot be right. Most obviously, nowhere does the HEARTH Act say that LAHSA must receive HUD funds. In fact, the statute Congress enacted contemplates scenarios in which HUD would decline to provide funds to collaborative applicants. For instance, Congress prohibits HUD from “provid[ing] assistance” unless the CoC “agrees ... to comply with such other terms and conditions as the Secretary may establish to carry out this part in an effective and efficient manner.” 42 U.S.C. § 11386(b)(8). And the statute expressly contemplates there being no CoC “for a geographic area,” and provides HUD with options to take remedial action in such an instance. Id. § 11360a(c). These are not commands to disburse funds to LAHSA at any cost, no matter the evidence that LAHSA has violated the terms of the grant agreements.

LAHSA’s main argument vaguely invokes congressional and Executive intent, rather than focusing on what the CoC program and the June 11 Suspension actually do.

1 LAHSA places great emphasis on its perception that “[t]he Trump Administration ...
2 wants to eliminate the [CoC] program,” and suggests that an otherwise lawful suspension 3 can become unlawful if “the Administration’s real intent is to scrap the Congressionally-4 mandated CoC system.” PI Motion at 1-2. That is an exercise in rhetoric, speculation, 5 and dramatic hyperbole, not law. LAHSA cannot provide any support for the notion that 6 HUD intends to “scrap” the CoC program. The June 18 letter—in which HUD proposes 7 a plan to move forward with the FY26 competition—proves the opposite. The June 11 8 Letter makes clear that the suspension decision was driven by concerns with LAHSA, 9 not the CoC program. See generally June 11 Letter.

10 Perhaps recognizing the weakness of its invalidation-by-intent thesis, LAHSA 11 casts about for a statutory hook. To no avail. LAHSA first suggests (PI Motion at 27 12 n.6) that HUD violated 42 U.S.C. § 12711, which provides that HUD “shall not establish 13 any criteria for allocating or denying funds ... based on the adoption, continuation, or 14 discontinuation by a jurisdiction of any public policy, regulation, or law that is (1) 15 adopted, continued, or discontinued in accordance with the jurisdiction’s duly 16 established authority, and (2) not in violation of any Federal law.” But the only “policy” 17 HUD would like LAHSA to adopt is to comply with the financial management, internal 18 controls, and conflicts-of-interest safeguards it agreed to. There is no local policy 19 adopted by a “duly established authority” permitting LAHSA to shirk the ordinary 20 procurement processes that virtually every federal agency follows. And if there were a 21 policy to send false certifications to the federal government, that would certainly be “in 22 violation of ... Federal law.”

23 Neither does it do any good for LAHSA to point to broad statements of how CoCs 24 generally function, see PI Motion at 27 (citing 42 U.S.C. § 11360a\(a\); § 11382(i)), when 25 a more specific provision of the same statute authorizes exactly what HUD did here, see 26 42 U.S.C. § 11360a\(c\). LAHSA claims that HUD’s “proposed remedial measure of 27 permitting solo entities to apply directly is ... contrary to statute and regulation.” PI 28 Motion 27. But the June 18 Letter perfectly tracks the language of § 11360a(c), which

1 authorizes HUD to “permit[] ... eligible entities to apply directly for grants.”

2 LAHSA’s only response is that § 11360a(c) does not apply because “HUD does 3 not base its suspension of LAHSA on any claim that it has failed to fairly distribute grant 4 funds to eligible entities within LA CoC.” PI Motion at 29. That is wrong—HUD 5 expressly doubted “LAHSA’s ability to operationally and effectively coordinate, 6 manage, distribute, and monitor taxpayer dollars in a responsible manner or to execute 7 the CoC Program’s mission to combat homelessness.” June 11 Letter at 5. But it is also 8 irrelevant. Section 11360a(c) does not condition HUD’s ability to take remedial action 9 on why any given entity is suspended. Indeed, the standard LAHSA quotes from 10 § 11360a(c)—ensuring “fair distribution of grant amounts”—describes what HUD’s 11 remedial action should do, not the remedial action’s trigger or a necessary condition or 12 required finding of deficiency. The only condition is that HUD must “find[]” that a 13 [CoC] for a geographic area does not meet the requirements of this section” or “there is 14 no [CoC] for a geographic area.” 42 U.S.C. § 11360a(c).

15 In passing, LAHSA also suggests that its suspension violates 42 U.S.C.
16 § 11382(d)(2), which requires HUD to “obligate the funds” related to a grant within 45
17 days of certain conditions being satisfied. PI Motion at 28-29. It is not entirely clear 18 what LAHSA means. To the extent LAHSA suggests that the suspension impermissibly 19 terminates grant agreements that have already been executed, that is plainly wrong. As 20 HUD explained in the June 11 Letter, the suspension prohibits LAHSA “from future 21 participation in procurement and nonprocurement transactions” with the Federal 22 Government. June 11 Letter at 3. It therefore does not terminate grant agreements that 23 HUD and LAHSA have already executed or curtail LAHSA’s use of funds that it has 24 already been granted.⁴ Narode Decl. ¶ 21. In any event, § 11382(d)(2) speaks only to 25 HUD’s duty to “obligate” certain funds, not to its suspension authority. Whether HUD

26 ⁴ As explained throughout, suspension itself is a limited action. HUD has reserved 27 the right to take other appropriate action regarding LAHSA’s existing, fully executed 28 grant agreements, but any such action would be distinct from those described in the June 11 and June 18 Letters. See, e.g., Narode Decl. at ¶¶ 18, 21-22.

1 must “obligate” funds notwithstanding LAHSA’s suspension poses a distinct question 2 not at issue in this case. And whether any particular entity is entitled to payment under 3 § 11382(d)(2) is a question for a Tucker Act suit in the Court of Federal Claims, not an 4 APA challenge in this Court. 28 U.S.C. § 1491; Roth v. United States, 378 F.3d 1371, 5 1384 (Fed. Cir. 2004) (holding that the Court of Federal Claims has jurisdiction over 6 suits pursuant to “money-mandating statutes”).

7 Finally, at times LAHSA argues that HUD’s actions are ultra vires. That cannot 8 add anything to LAHSA’s other statutory arguments. An ultra vires claim “is essentially 9 a Hail Mary pass—and in court as in football, the attempt rarely succeeds.” Nuclear 10 Regul. Comm’n v. Texas, 605 U.S. 665, 681-82 (2025) (citation omitted). It applies 11 “only when an agency has taken an action entirely in excess of its delegated powers and 12 contrary to a specific prohibition in a statute.” Id. at 681 (citation omitted). As already 13 explained, HUD’s actions fall well within its delegated and statutory authority.

14 Taken to its logical conclusion, LAHSA’s argument would mean that—no matter 15 how much evidence exists that LAHSA is shirking its obligations under federal grant 16 agreements—HUD would be powerless to suspend LAHSA. That is not the law.

17 3. HUD’s Actions Do Not Violate the Constitution.

18 LAHSA closes out its case with a half-hearted attempt to find a constitutional 19 violation—in particular, a separation-of-powers violation, and a Tenth Amendment 20 violation. Neither comes close to succeeding.

21 First, LAHSA argues that the suspension “eliminat[es] the LA CoC entirely,” and 22 thus “contravenes the express will of Congress.” PI Motion 42. But that is just to 23 “recast [the] statutory claims as constitutional ones.” Global Health Council v. Trump, 24 153 F.4th 1, 14 (2025). It thus adds nothing to LAHSA’s statutory claims. Importantly, 25 the June 11 letter does not address the CoC at all, and the June 18 letter does not disband
26 it. The latter simply notes that, due to its relationship with LAHSA, the CoC is presently 27 “unable to execute its responsibilities” in the CoC program. June 18 letter at 1. But even 28 under LAHSA’s view of the facts, case law “does not support the proposition that every

1 action” by an agency “in excess of [its] statutory authority is ipso facto in violation of 2 the constitution.” Dalton v. Specter, 511 U.S. 462, 472 (1994); see also Ass’n for Educ.
3 Fin. & Pol’y, Inc. v. McMahon, 786 F. Supp. 3d 13, 32 (D.D.C. 2025) (“[I]f every 4 statutory compliance issue triggered separation of powers concerns, virtually all APA 5 cases would balloon into disputes of constitutional proportions.”). And, as mentioned 6 before, it does not contravene Congress’s express will to take the remedial action that 7 Congress itself provided.

8 Second, LAHSA argues that the suspension “violates principles of federalism and 9 the Tenth Amendment” because caring for the homeless is part of the state’s “police 10 power.” PI Motion at 30, 43. That is wrong. Caring for the homeless may be an 11 archetypal “police power,” but under no principle of law or logic can that mean that the 12 Tenth Amendment therefore requires the Federal Government to fund Californian 13 homeless programs, or to fund them on LAHSA’s terms. The Tenth Amendment is not 14 violated—and a state’s sovereignty is not offended—when HUD simply declines to 15 execute future grant agreements with one irresponsible recipient.

16 LAHSA’s misguided Tenth Amendment argument also conflates its own well-17 being with that of the state writ large. LAHSA cannot show that the June 11 Letter will 18 result in any significant reduction of CoC funds for Los Angeles, much less for 19 California. To the contrary, the June 18 Letter shows that HUD is taking steps to ensure 20 Los Angeles service providers are able to participate in the FY2026 CoC competition.
21 LAHSA’s attempt to elevate a contractor suspension action to the level of a debate about 22 federalism is thus wrong on law and fact.

23 B. LAHSA Has Not Demonstrated Irreparable Harm.

24 LAHSA also failed to meet its threshold burden to make a “clear showing” that it 25 is likely to suffer irreparable harm absent injunctive relief. Winter v. Nat. Res. Def.
26 Council, Inc., 555 U.S. 7, 22-23 (2008). “Under Winter, plaintiffs must establish that 27 irreparable harm is likely, not just possible, in order to obtain a preliminary injunction.”
28 Alliance for the Wild Rockies v. Cottrell, 632 F.3d 1127, 1131 (9th Cir. 2011).

1 LAHSA does not identify any irreparable harm to itself. Instead, it alleges 2 irreparable harm to third parties, including the City of Los Angeles, LA County, the 3 homeless, other organizations, and the LA CoC generally. PI Motion at 47-49; 4 Declaration of Matthew W. Szabo, ECF No. 15-66, ¶ 3 (“The City of Los Angeles ...
5 and LAHSA are separate entities.”). But “Plaintiffs seeking injunctive relief must show 6 that they themselves are likely to suffer irreparable harm absent an injunction.” Nat’l
7 Wildlife Fed. v. Nat’l Marine Fisheries Serv., 886 F.3d 803, 822 (9th Cir. 2018)
8 (emphasis added); see also Immigrant Legal Res. Ctr. v. City of McFarland, 827 F. 9 App’x 749, 751 (9th Cir. 2020) (district court abused its discretion by “focus[ing] its 10 irreparable harm analysis on the prospect of harm to third parties”); Caribbean Marine 11 Services Co., Inc. v. Baldrige, 844 F.2d 668, 678 (9th Cir. 1988) (plaintiff must show 12 “irreparable injury to itself”).

13 To be sure, absent an injunction, LAHSA will remain suspended from its role as 14 Collaborative Applicant for the LA CoC during the ongoing investigation. But LAHSA 15 can be restored to that role if it prevails in this litigation, if it prevails in administrative 16 proceedings before HUD, or if the investigation does not lead to debarment.
17 Importantly, LAHSA does not claim, nor could it, that it has no other sources of funding 18 to support its other, non-federal activities and allow it to remain in business during the 19 suspension. Even the present effect of the June 11 suspension is limited: it simply 20 prohibits LAHSA from participating in future transactions with the federal government 21 during the pendency of the ongoing investigation. June 11 Letter. Because it applies 22 only to future transactions, the June 11 suspension does not affect grant agreements that 23 HUD and LAHSA have already executed or curtail LAHSA’s use of funds that it has 24 already been granted. Narode Decl. ¶ 21.

25 LAHSA insists that it is “unclear” whether the June 11 suspension “constitute[s] a 26 complete freeze on LAHSA spending.” PI Motion at 22. At this time, however, HUD 27 has not taken separate agency action to impose specific conditions on LAHSA’s use of 28 its existing grant funds. Narode Decl. ¶ 18. Nor has HUD made any determination

1 about what action, if any, it will take with respect to funds that were preliminarily 2 awarded to LAHSA, but which cannot be subject to a new transaction with LAHSA in 3 light of the suspension. Id. ¶ 21. In short, LAHSA’s concerns do not stem from the 4 suspension itself, but from hypothetical future agency action. Such speculative injury 5 cannot “constitute an irreparable harm justifying injunctive relief” from the suspension.
6 Caribbean Marine Services, 844 F.2d at 675.

7 C. The Balance of Equities and Public Interest Weigh Against Granting 8 an Injunction.

9 LAHSA also fails to make a “clear showing” that the balance of equities and 10 public interest weigh in favor of an injunction. Atwood v. Shinn, 36 F.4th 901, 903 (9th 11 Cir. 2023) (citation omitted). Even when a plaintiff shows that it will suffer irreparable 12 harm (which LAHSA has not), “courts must balance the competing claims of injury and 13 must consider the effect on each part of the granting or withholding of the requested 14 relief,” paying “particular regard” to the “public consequences” of an injunction. Winter, 15 555 U.S. at 24 (internal quotation marks omitted).

16 The public consequences favor denying the application. LAHSA’s June 11 17 suspension serves the public interest because LAHSA has exhibited a “clear pattern” of 18 “wanton mismanagement of public funds.” June 11 Letter at 3. That pattern has been 19 publicly documented and is well-known to this Court. See LA All. for Human Rights v.
20 City of L.A. (LA Alliance II), 2026 WL 127741, at *8 (C.D. Cal. Jan. 6, 2026) (noting 21 that audits have “uncovered significant and substantial issues with LAHSA’s 22 management of its finances and issues with its record-keeping”); LA Alliance I, 792 F.
23 Supp. 3d at 1061 (summarizing LAHSA’s “persistent pattern of dysfunction”). HUD 24 also found that LAHSA has a pattern of conflicts of interest and false statements. The 25 June 11 Letter substantiates these findings in detail, and HUD’s findings merit respect.
26 And, of course, there is also the per se irreparable harm suffered whenever the executive 27 branch is enjoined from carrying out its mandate, Trump v. CASA, Inc., 606 U.S. 831, 28 861 (2025)—here, “[t]o protect the public interest ... by conducting business only with 1 responsible persons,” 2 C.F.R. § 180.125(a).

2 The public interest also favors deferring judicial review of the suspension until 3 LAHSA’s administrative challenge to that suspension is resolved. Even where not 4 required by statute or regulation, exhaustion of administrative remedies serves the public 5 interest by “prevent[ing] premature interference with agency processes so that the 6 agency may function efficiently and so that it may have an opportunity to correct its own 7 errors, to afford the parties and the courts the benefit of its experience and expertise, and 8 to compile a record which is adequate for judicial review.” Ctr. for Food Safety v.

10 F.3d 468, 478 (9th Cir. 2015)).

11 On the other side of the equation, LAHSA touts the role of the LA CoC in 12 reducing homelessness. But LAHSA is not the LA CoC. While LAHSA’s suspension 13 means that it cannot act on behalf of the LA CoC, the duties it performed for the LA
14 CoC prior to its suspension can be performed by others, including HUD itself. Narode

16 to the total amount of HUD funding to eligible applicants within the LA CoC’s 17 geographic area. Id. ¶ 22. HUD may, of course, adjust individual grants or awards 18 through future agency action. Id. But even such adjustments would not necessarily 19 reduce the amount of funds for that geographic area in the FY2026 CoC competition or 20 in future competitions.

21 V. CONCLUSION

22 Defendants respectfully request that the Court deny LAHSA’s motion for a 23 preliminary injunction.

DECLARATION OF DANE (DANA) M.
NARODE IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANTS' OPPOSITION TO EX
PARTE APPLICATION FOR TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER
AND ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE RE:
PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION [DKT
24]

Honorable David O. Carter
United States District Judge

DECLARATION OF DANE (DANA) M. NARODE

I, Dane (Dana) M. Narode, do hereby declare and state as follows:

1. My legal name is Dana M. Narode. I am known as Dane M. Narode.

2. I am the Associate General Counsel for Program Enforcement in Office of General Counsel of the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and have been in that role since 2008. I have been at HUD since 1987 and, during that time, have served as Trial Attorney, Deputy Assistant General Counsel for Administrative Proceedings, and Assistant General Counsel for Administrative Proceedings. In all of these roles, I have represented HUD in suspension and debarment proceedings.

3. Contemporaneous with some of these roles, I have also carried out the responsibilities, in an acting capacity, of HUD's Associate General Counsel for Litigation and of the Compliance Director of HUD's Departmental Enforcement Center.

4. In my current role, I lead HUD's Office of Program Enforcement (OPE). Although with other OPE attorneys, I have represented HUD in its communications with the Los Angeles Homeless Services Authority (LAHSA), Plaintiff here, regarding the Notice of Suspension dated June 11, 2026 (ECF No. 15-25), the separate notice letter dated June 18, 2026 (ECF No. 15-24), and other related matters.

5. I make this declaration based upon my personal knowledge and that gained by review of the official files and records of HUD. If called as a witness, I could and would competently testify thereto.

6. On May 29, 2026, HUD-OIG notified HUD that it had initiated an investigation of LAHSA based on a referral from HUD.

7. On June 11, 2026, HUD suspended LAHSA from future transactions with the Federal Government during the pendency of that investigation.

8. On June 16, 2026, counsel for LAHSA met via teleconference with HUD counsel to present questions about the scope of the suspension noticed on June 11, 2026, and about other aspects of LAHSA's HUD-assisted activity. LAHSA's counsel asked

1 whether HUD considered the June 11 suspension to apply to (1) funds being drawn 2 down under fully executed grant agreements, (2) the finalizing of grant agreements
3 (partially executed or otherwise) under award letters, (3) the upcoming FY2026 CoC 4 competition.

5 9. Prior to this meeting, HUD staff in the Office of Community Planning and 6 Development (CPD) had already begun deliberations regarding the agency's intended 7 course of action for the FY2026 CoC competition in light of LAHSA's suspension.

8 10. On June 18, 2026, the Assistant Secretary for CPD issued a letter relevant to 9 the FY2026 CoC competition. By statute and regulation specific to the CoC program, 10 HUD may take remedial action when a CoC or collaborative applicant is unable to carry 11 out programmatic duties. Among the available remedies, HUD may permit eligible 12 entities to submit applications for CoC funding directly to HUD, rather than through a 13 collaborative applicant or CoC. In the June 18, 2026, letter, CPD notified LAHSA that it 14 intended to take that remedial action, absent a contrary decision based on LAHSA's 15 response, to be provided within 30 days. In support of that intended course of action, 16 CPD noted that LAHSA's suspension precluded it from carrying out the programmatic 17 functions delegated to it by the Los Angeles City and County Continuum of Care (Los 18 Angeles CoC, identified as CA-600), such as serving as the CoC's collaborative 19 applicant and applying for funds directly.

20 11. The period for LAHSA to respond to HUD's June 18, 2026, letter will end
21 on July 18, 2026. HUD specifically noted the upcoming August 26, 2026, CoC 22 application deadline and told LAHSA that "a swift response would be appreciated." June 23 18, 2026, letter at 2.

24 12. HUD's action in the June 18, 2026, letter, as stated therein, was "separate 25 from and does not affect the June 11, 2026, suspension of LAHSA or any rights or 26 responsibilities regarding that action." Although the fact of LAHSA's suspension 27 supported HUD's analysis, the action was not based on suspension and debarment 28 authority, but rather on the specific CoC statutory and regulatory provisions cited

1 therein.

2 13. On June 22, 2026, HUD received notice that HUD-OIG had, in addition to 3 the investigation referenced in the Notice of Suspension, initiated an audit to determine 4 whether LAHSA's Continuum of Care subrecipients expended grant funds in accordance 5 with program requirements. HUD-OIG's notice indicates that it expects to complete the 6 audit in December 2026. At this time, I have no further information about this audit 7 beyond what was stated in that notice.

8 14. Based on public records, it appears LAHSA's Commission voted in closed 9 session at a special meeting on June 22, 2026, to authorize litigation challenging its 10 suspension. See https://www.lahsa.org/documents?id=9966-2026-06-22-special-
11 commission-agenda-supporting-documents.pdf (Agenda, item 12.0) (last visited June 29, 12 2026).

13 15. Because the June 18, 2026, letter was relevant to LAHSA's third question 14 posed on June 16, 2026, HUD provided a copy to LAHSA's counsel.

15 16. HUD continued to work to answer LAHSA's remaining questions. On June 16 24, 2026, HUD counsel met with LAHSA counsel, including Christopher Pelham of the 17 law firm Norton Rose Fulbright. At this meeting, LAHSA counsel did not disclose 18 LAHSA's authorization of a lawsuit against HUD, did not notify HUD of LAHSA's 19 intention to eventually seek emergency relief in federal court, and did not request a 20 hearing to contest the suspension.

21 17. During the June 24, 2026, meeting, HUD noted that, by regulation, 22 LAHSA's June 11 suspension only applies to new transactions and not to grant 23 agreements that have already been fully executed by both parties. Thus, LAHSA's June 24 11 suspension would not affect funds LAHSA was already using.

25 18. Also, during the June 24, 2026, meeting, HUD put LAHSA on notice that it 26 intended to impose "specific conditions," on LAHSA's use of existing HUD funds. See 27 2 C.F.R. § 200.208. While HUD has not made any final determination as to what, if any, 28 specific conditions it will impose, HUD expressly informed LAHSA that it would not

1 impose specific conditions on (1) the drawdown of grant funds LAHSA would need to 2 make payroll on June 30, 2026 or (2) drawdowns that took place prior to the suspension 3 to make payment for work already performed under agreements that were fully executed 4 prior to the suspension. In follow-up correspondence, HUD reserved “the right to seek 5 all available remedies at a later time.”

6 19. I have reviewed a report from HUD’s electronic Line of Credit Control 7 System (eLOCCS) which shows that LAHSA, between June 11, 2026, and June 29, 8 2026, made at least forty-seven (47) draws on existing grant funds, in a total amount of 9 over $4.5 million.

10 20. In the June 24, 2026, meeting with LAHSA, HUD followed up on 11 LAHSA’s final outstanding question about the status of funds preliminarily awarded to 12 LAHSA or its subrecipients but for which a grant agreement, subrecipient agreement, or 13 proposed amendment had not been fully executed prior to LAHSA’s suspension.
14 Whether or not an agreement or amendment has been fully executed is relevant to 15 whether it poses a new “covered transaction” for purposes of 2 C.F.R. Part 180.
16 LAHSA, like other collaborative applicants with record-keeping obligations, retains 17 copies of all subrecipient agreements, but does not automatically send them to HUD.
18 LAHSA may have executed agreements or amendments with HUD without returning the 19 executed copies to HUD. HUD asked LAHSA to identify all grant agreements, 20 subrecipient agreements, and proposed amendments that were not fully executed prior to 21 LAHSA’s suspension. This request was meant to ensure both parties understood the 22 execution status of all relevant agreements and amendments to facilitate a complete 23 decision process by the agency. HUD reasserted this request in the meet and confer 24 teleconference held on Monday, June 29, 2026, with LAHSA’s counsel. To my 25 knowledge, at the time of the execution of this declaration, LAHSA has not submitted 26 the requested information.

27 21. To my knowledge, HUD has not yet determined what action the agency will 28 take with regard to funds that were preliminarily awarded but which cannot now be

1 subject to a new covered transaction with LAHSA in light of its suspension.

2 22. Although HUD has the authority to adjust the amounts of individual future 3 grants and awards, LAHSA's suspension, in and of itself, would not require any 4 significant change to the total amount of funding the LA CoC receives from HUD.

5 23. On the evening of Friday, July 10, 2026, LAHSA requested an 6 administrative hearing in response to the June 11, 2026, Letter. To my knowledge, as of 7 the time of execution of this declaration, a hearing date has not yet been set.

8 I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America 9 that the foregoing is true and correct.

10 Executed on July 13, 2026, in Alexandria, VA.
